SHELLFISH POISONING REPORTED

In spite of a warning issued by the director of the department and an announcement of a quarantine on mussels, effective June 1, 1939, nearly 50 cases of shellfish poisoning occurred in central California June 18th to 20th. Of these 21 cases, with 2 deaths, occurred in Oakland. All had eaten mussels gathered in the quarantine areas of Monterey County. Eight cases with no deaths occurred in Contra Costa and Alameda counties. Four cases with one death occurred in Santa Clara County and 8 cases with 2 deaths occurred in Monterey County. All of these cases were caused by eating mussels which had been taken from Monterey County. In Santa Clara County, 6 cases with 1 death occurred from eating clams gathered in Santa Cruz County.

The toxicity of these shellfish varies from year to year. During the summer season it is not safe to eat mussels gathered along most of the California coast with the exception of the San Francisco Bay area. They are highly toxic this summer and the quarantine will continue through September, and it may be extended if laboratory examinations show continued toxicity at that time.

No enterprise in the range of human experience can rank with learning. By it alone man rises above dumb creatures. If, therefore, we have received nothing else so good as the mind, what should be more worth cultivating? No quest of gold or wordly power has in the long run ever brought like gratification. No other adventure is to be compared with it. Through it civilization and all man's higher achievements have been won.—Leon J. Richardson.

The first sure symptoms of a mind in health are rest of heart and pleasure found at home.—Young.
